

Working with Voscur to local spaces inclusive

Read about how Rob shared his life experiences with community places

Rob gave a talk about making community spaces better for people with learning disabilities.

The talk was with Rachel from VOSCUR, a group in Bristol that helps community organisations.

Many groups came to listen.

People sent questions before the event so Rob could prepare. Rob visited Nissen Hut before the event to feel more comfortable.

Rob gave good advice. People listened carefully and took notes. Rob's ideas showed how small changes can make spaces better for everyone.

People wanted to know more about Easy Read. They asked how to use it on websites and social media.

People liked a booklet called 'How Inclusive Are You?' and wanted more tips on making events more inclusive.

Rob also talked about having different seating and being kind and patient.

The event showed that small changes can make a big difference for everyone.

The event was a success, and people left feeling inspired to make their spaces more welcoming.

SENDaWelcome

If you want to know more, you can look at SENDaWelcome's resources online. They have lots of helpful information.