

Lucy's Story- Making old books into hedgehogs

Read about how Lucy ran her own creative workshop

Lucy turns old books into Hedgehogs!

My Community Bristol asked Lucy to teach a workshop. She was very happy to do it. Lucy lives in supported living nearby.

The Marie Curie shop on Gloucester Road was chosen. Stephanie, the Hub Space Manager, gave Lucy a space. She also offered free drinks for a donation.

On the workshop day, the space was ready. Tables were set up, and books were provided. Lucy had never taught before, but she did a great job.

People found the activity calming and fun. There was laughter and chatting. New friendships were made. Even shoppers stopped to see the fun.

At the end, everyone took home a hedgehog. They were excited to show family and friends. Lucy did an amazing job. Thanks to Marie Curie for the space.

Jennie said it was brilliant. She loved learning and thought Lucy was a great teacher. Bobby said he had a lovely morning learning a new skill.

Lucy said she enjoys teaching people to make hedgehogs. Rob also said Lucy is a great teacher. Everyone had a wonderful time.

The workshop was a big success. Lucy was proud of her work. We hope to plan more creative workshops. Everyone is looking forward to them.

If you want help from SENDaWelcome to run your own group then email sendawelcome@gmail.com
Phone or text: 07386493801